To All Our Gardening Friends:

In presenting to you our new and larger 1952 Catalogue we would like to express our gratitude for the loyal patronage of you, our customers, and your ever increasing demand for our bulbs. Your many enthusiastic letters indicate the excellent results in growing our bulbs in your gardens.

Our Nurseries at Limmen, Holland, assure us that the outlook for this year's crop is exceptionally good. This, together with our experience in growing and shipping bulbs since 1868, will enable us to supply you with bulbs of the choicest quality. All our bulbs are guaranteed true to name, topsize, and free from disease. No charges for cases or packing. As all orders are filled in rotation, please order as early as possible.

In conclusion we want to assure you of our best services at all times, and we are looking forward to hearing from you again.

Sincerely,

THE HOLLAND BULB GARDENS, Inc.

TERMS:

This list cancels all previous quotations.

Free delivery to all points in the U. S. A. for orders over $5.00. For orders less than $5.00 please add $1.00 for extra postage and packing.

PAYMENTS: Unless otherwise arranged, cash with order, please. This will save us time and trouble and will save you money in return.

TIME OF SHIPPING: Bulbs start leaving our nurseries in Holland the middle of August arriving at our warehouses here the first week of September. We start shipping from here as soon as possible.

MAILING: All correspondence and orders etc. should be mailed to our Salem address: P. O. Box 72, Salem, Mass.

GUARANTEE: We guarantee our bulbs to be of choicest quality, disease free and true to name but we cannot assume responsibility as to the flowering results of the crop as there are too many factors involved beyond our control. All our bulbs are inspected now by both the Dutch and U. S. A. Dept. of Agriculture officials.

* All varieties marked with asterisk must be ordered by July 15 to assure delivery.

DARWIN TULIPS

"THE ARISTOCRATS OF TULIPDOM"

We know of no other Tulips so useful for various purposes, as the Darwin Tulips, with their bright colors, their large flowers on long graceful stems, their wonderful substance and lasting qualities.

For bedding, planting in borders and general gardening purposes, as well as for outside grown cutflowers, there are no better and more pleasing Tulips than the glorious Darwins. No May garden is complete without Darwin Tulips, which possess a beauty and attractiveness all their own.

TUBEROUS ROOTED BEGONIAS

Begonias do well in any shaded place, in light soil, well enriched with leaf-mould, with a certain amount of moisture. After flowering season is over, lift bulbs, and store in dry and cool place until next spring. If wanted they can be started indoor in March, to be planted out when danger of frost is over.

MONTBRETIA

Montbretias are of South African origin and are recognized as one of the brightest of our Summer and Autumn flowering bulbs. The flowers are yellow, orange or orange-red. They look like small-sized Gladioli. Their cultivation is similar to that for Gladioli. Plant two inches deep and three to four inches apart. Plant in clumps or rows. If well protected they can survive the winter, but usually they are lifted, stored for the winter and replanted like Gladioli.

PEONIES

Wherever one desires continuing bloom year after year from plants in the garden, we recommend the planting of Peonies. Hardy in almost all parts of this country and Canada, the vigor of the plants and the wealth of blooms in their lovely shades of white, pink and rich reds give delightful effects both in the garden and as cut flowers. When once established, the plants increase in size and quality for many years and need not be disturbed. They will persist in many localities where other perennials fail to grow and their increasing use testifies to their popularity.

Peonies are especially decorative as cut flowers and many amateur enthusiasts give thousands every year to churches and hospitals.

Culture of Peonies

Peonies will grow in almost any location, but do best when not planted too near large trees. However, where they are given some shade from the hot afternoon sun, the delicate colors may be retained. A good garden soil of loamy texture, where there is drainage, will produce satisfactory roots and flowers. In this type of soil, no especial preparation is necessary except to loosen and break up any lumps.

You may use any garden fertilizer available or bone meal. Wood ashes containing lime and potash have proved very satisfactory. The amount will be determined by the size of the plant, but a good handful is a rough measure. Too much rain may cause botrytis, a fungus which causes the stems to wilt and turn black. We find that ground limestone is one of the best correctives and this may be used freely. The diseased stems should be burned.

The roots should be planted so that the buds are about two inches below the surface when the ground is settled around them. Too deep planting will result in good foliage but no blooms. This is usually the cause for lack of blooms. Do not attempt to replant Peonies in soil where they have grown before, and if the same location is desired, the earth should be removed and replaced by fresh earth from another part of the garden. When the buds attain about an inch in size, they exude a sticky honey which is attractive to ants, but these seldom do harm and will disappear in a short time.

Peonies may be successfully planted at almost any time of the year, but are most easily handled in the spring before the buds have pushed through the ground. The first season will not produce large and often not typical blooms. They should be treated as permanent plants and will grow and thrive from ten to twenty years in one location.

DOUBLE-FLOWERING PEONIES

For your convenience we have listed these according to color.

Prices quoted are for strong, healthy plants with at least three to five buds.

For two-year clumps, add 50%.

For three-year clumps, double the price.

Price per ten is 10% less than the single rate. Priced at $1.50 each our charge is $13.50 per 10.

The number following each name is the percentage rating given by the American Peony Society.
